Ms. Joan Landry, Assistant Conductor
North Carolina Symphony
Suite 250

Dear Ms. Landry:

Thank you so much for inviting our fourth grade classes to attend the performance of the North Carolina Symphony. It was so much fun and I learned so much more about the symphony and musical instruments.

When we arrived in our best outfits, I was thrilled to enter the auditorium and relax in the soft plush seats with comfortable arms. However, it was not long before I was sitting on the edge of my seat.

The instruments were shiny bronze and gold and created amazing sounds. The fantastic sounds of the entire symphony melding together made magnificent vibrations of sound. I could pick out the tuba the best!

I also loved watching you conduct the musicians. Your face was lighting up as you moved to the beat. I am curious to know where you went to college to learn all of that and how long did it take you to fully learn to conduct?

Thank you again so much for allowing us to participate and learn about the beautiful sounds of the symphony. I can't wait to visit another performance of the North Carolina symphony.

Musically sincere,

Olivia Williams
