Hugh Cullman

(January 27, 1923–November 4, 2023)

This week, we pay tribute to the extraordinary life of Mr. Hugh Cullman.

A man of passion, determination, and good humor, Hugh and his wife Nan Ogburn Cullman became part of the North Carolina Symphony family when Nan joined the Symphony's Board of Trustees in 1996. Just three years prior, they had relocated from New York to Nan's beloved North Carolina, returning to her southern roots.

Hugh and Nan's philanthropy was purposeful and visionary, particularly evident in their unwavering support for the North Carolina Symphony's mission to serve "Nan's people," the people of North Carolina, who they believed deserve the best orchestra possible. After Nan's death in 2015, Hugh's love for the Symphony continued. A trusted advisor, generous benefactor, and subscriber, Hugh demonstrated his belief in the orchestra's brilliant artistry and promising future.

We will continue to celebrate Hugh's life and the life of his beloved Nan through our commitment to excellence as the state's orchestra, a legacy that will live on for years to come.

About the Artists

Carlos Miguel Prieto, conductor

The Maxine and Benjamin Swalin Chair

Carlos Miguel Prieto became Music Director of the North Carolina Symphony on July 1, 2023, at the beginning of the 2023/24 season. He first appeared with the Symphony as guest conductor in 2011 and was named Artistic Advisor in 2021.

Carlos Miguel Prieto was born into a musical family of Spanish and French descent in Mexico City and is the foremost Mexican conductor of his generation. He served from 2006 to 2023 as Music Director of the Louisiana Philharmonic Orchestra, where he is now Conductor Laureate. He was Music Director of the Orquesta Sinfónica Nacional de México from 2007 to 2022, and in 2008 he was appointed Music Director of the Orquesta Sinfónica de Minería, which performs a series of summer programs in Mexico City.

Prieto is in great demand as a guest conductor with orchestras including The Cleveland Orchestra, Minnesota Orchestra, National Symphony Orchestra, Dallas Symphony Orchestra, Toronto Symphony Orchestra, and New World Symphony, and has enjoyed a particularly close and successful relationship with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. In 2023 he made his BBC Proms debut at the Royal Albert Hall with the National Youth Orchestra of Great Britain.

Since 2002, alongside Gustavo Dudamel, Prieto has conducted the Youth Orchestra of the Americas (YOA). He served as Principal Conductor of the YOA from its inception until 2011, when he was appointed Music Director. He has also worked regularly with the National Youth Orchestra of Great Britain and the NYO2 in New York.

Prieto has conducted over 100 world premieres of works by Mexican and American composers, many of which were commissioned by him. Among his many recordings, his rendition of the Rachmaninoff Piano Concerto No. 2 & Études-tableaux Op. 33, with Boris Giltburg and the Royal Scottish National Orchestra, won a 2018 Opus Klassik award and was listed as a Gramophone Critics' Choice for 2017. His recording of Korngold's Violin Concerto with Philippe Quint and the Orquesta Sinfónica de Minería received two Grammy nominations.

Carlos Miguel Prieto was recognized by Musical America as the 2019 Conductor of the Year. A graduate of Princeton and Harvard universities, Prieto studied conducting with Jorge Mester, Enrique Diemecke, Charles Bruck, and Michael Jinbo.

Alban Gerhardt, cello

These concerts are the North Carolina Symphony debut for Alban Gerhardt.

Having launched his career with Berliner Philharmoniker and Semyon Bychkov in 1991, Alban Gerhardt collaborated with orchestras including the Royal Concertgebouw Orchestra, all the British and German radio orchestras, Tonhalle-Orchester Zürich, Orchestre national de France, and Orquesta Nacional de España as well as The Cleveland Orchestra, The Philadelphia Orchestra, and the Boston and Chicago symphony orchestras.

Highlights in the 2023/24 season include Deutsches Symphonie-Orchester Berlin with Marin Alsop, Gürzenich-Orchester Köln with Susanna Mälkki, Royal Concertgebouw Orchestra with Andrew Manze, and Sydney Symphony Orchestra with Simone Young. Gerhardt also appears in the 2023/24 season at Aldeburgh Festival as Artist in Focus and in Duisburger Philharmoniker's Kammerkonzerte series with the classical saxophone ensemble Alliage Quintett, as he takes up the mantle of Duisburger Philharmoniker's Artist in Residence for the season.

A prolific recording artist, Gerhardt has received several awards for his recordings including an ECHO Klassik Award in 2008 for Reger: Cello Sonatas with pianist Markus Becker, a BBC Music Magazine Award in 2015 for his recording of Unsuk Chin's Cello Concerto with Myung-whun Chung and Seoul Philharmonic Orchestra (for which he was also shortlisted for a Gramophone Award), and an International Classical Music Award in 2021 for Shostakovich: Cello Concertos with WDR Sinfonieorchester Köln and Jukka-Pekka Saraste.

Gerhardt is passionate about sharing his discoveries with audiences far beyond the traditional concert hall, undertaking outreach projects across Europe and the United States that have involved performances and workshops not only in schools and hospitals, but also public spaces and young offender institutions.

Gerhardt plays a Matteo Gofriller cello dating from 1710.

About the Music

Cello Concerto in B Minor, Op. 104

ANTONÍN DVOŘÁK (1841-1904)

THE STORY

Symphonic in its length, Dvořák's Cello Concerto in B Minor abounds with ravishing melodies, ferocious themes, and vivid color, and shares harmonic and melodic similarities with another famous composition from this period: his Symphony No. 9, "From the New World." Composed from 1894-95, the Cello Concerto numbers among the last pieces that Dvořák wrote during his stay in the United States.

After Dvořák finished the concerto, he received news of the death of his first love, Josefina Čermáková. In her memory, he revised the work to incorporate a song of his that Josefina had been especially fond of, titled Leave Me Alone, in the middle section of the slow movement.

While Dvořák initially expressed reservations about the cello's upper and lower registers and worried that the orchestra would drown out the cello, this concerto exhibits mastery in orchestration. Johannes Brahms, a mentor of Dvořák, exclaimed, "If I had known that it was possible to compose such a concerto for the cello, I would have tried it myself!"

LISTEN FOR

- The orchestral exposition in the first movement introducing the themes with which the soloist will also enter—a first theme that rises mysteriously from the clarinets and woodwinds and gains dramatic power in the strings and horns, followed by a second theme that appears with the horn singing the majestic melody
- The pastoral woodwind ensemble that begins the second movement—a distressed outburst in the orchestra disrupts the bucolic atmosphere, which returns with bird-like interjections in the flute and bassoon that flit around the cello
- The martial beginning to the finale that concludes the concerto—but not before the violin reminisces on the quote from Leave Me Alone that appeared in the previous movement.

INSTRUMENTATION

Solo cello; piccolo, two flutes, two oboes, two clarinets, two bassoons, three horns, two trumpets, three trombones, tuba, timpani, percussion, strings

Symphony No. 4 in E Minor, Op. 98

JOHANNES BRAHMS (1833-1897)

THE STORY

The composition of Brahms' First Symphony proved an arduous process that spanned over 20 years as he wrestled with the anxiety of composing a symphony in the shadow of Beethoven's masterworks for the genre. By the Fourth Symphony—his last—Brahms displays facility, ease, and mastery. The result combines economy of language with dynamic expression—and while it is the shortest of the four, it shows an abundance of emotional riches: the Fourth Symphony is at once serious and elegant, alternately elegiac and belligerent.

Brahms demonstrates that even when some considered the symphony exhausted of its expressive power, meaningful ways of composing for this established genre still existed. The harmonic language of the second movement borrows from Medieval and Renaissance music, and the formidable finale is constructed upon a passacaglia—a Baroque form in which a repeated melodic line is constantly refitted with new variations. Consisting of 30 variations, the finale demonstrates both reverence for historical forms and inexhaustible ingenuity.

LISTEN FOR

- The elegant, sighing first theme that begins the symphony as the violins inhale and exhale with alternately descending and ascending gestures, like a giant organ
- The chant-like melody of the second movement, first intoned by the horns, then echoed by the oboe and flute
- The boisterous energy of the third movement, whose restlessness manifests in strong accents on weak beats, punchy chords, and colorful orchestration
- The flute solo that marks the midpoint of the finale, giving way to a tender duet between the clarinet and oboe and then to a lush brass chorale before the trombones announce the return of the tragic theme that opened the finale, pushing with relentless ferocity to the end

Piccolo, two flutes, two oboes, two clarinets, two bassoons, contrabassoon, four horns, two trumpets, three trombones, timpani, percussion, strings

Named musician chairs are made possible through very meaningful gifts to the Symphony's endowment. As such, these donor families are also members of the Lamar Stringfield Society.

All string players rotate stands on a periodic basis in each section with the exception of titled players: Principals, Associate Principals, and Assistant Principals.

The North Carolina Symphony is a member of the League of American Orchestras and the International Conference of Symphony and Opera Musicians.

The North Carolina Master Chorale is the Resident Chorus of the North Carolina Symphony.

The North Carolina Symphony Foundation gratefully acknowledges the generous gift of the Lupot violin from Arnold and Zena† Lerman.
